DICK'S NEW SHOCK I just bought this gun. Looked good at first, maybe I did a bad deal on it. Now, on the left side of the receiver (under the trigger), the upper and lower receivers don't line up right. The angle is too off. The bolt and the hammer are all aligned so it looks like a totally different gun. I'm not sure if I can fix it. This gun looks like a really cheap piece of junk to me. Is there something I can do to fix it or can I just chalk it up to the fact that I didn't read the instruction manual? Hey, the grip also is pretty loose on the side of the pistol. It's very loose. I can move my hand around in the handle pretty good. I don't know if it's because it's a new gun or not. It's just loose. I am afraid to fire it, and I don't know if I should try to shoot it. It seems to be a dangerous piece of junk to me. Re: DICK'S NEW SHOCK It looks like a semi-auto version of the very cool USGI Weapon M6.22 Semi-Auto Rifle. It's a long gun like yours and I know one guy who has one. One is listed for $239. Anyway, your new "SIG" is a nice gun and looks like a very clean, well built M6. The major difference is the charging handle, but your pistol will shoot any.22 ammo the big guy can shoot! Yeah, the M6 you're talking about is nice. I should have paid more attention. I just picked the gun up at the local indoor range for a measly $20. It looks really nice, but I'm sure I need a new scope. I can't afford to spend that much on a gun. I saw that, after you buy the gun, you 82157476af
